Do you prefer natural or modern medicine?

The question that I'm answering today is, do I prefer natural (1) or modern (2) medicine?

Now, in my experience in my family (3), we have utilized both. The natural (4) component is in the form of traditional Chinese medicines, where you boil (5) roots and herbs (6) to treat ailments. And of course, the modern (7) medicine is the medicine in the hospital (8) as we know of it today.

Now for me, I prefer modern medicine more because personally I have trained (9) in the area as a health professional (10). So I understand the science (11), I've seen the process (12), and I also like how each of the treatments (13) provided do have a form of research (14) and proof (15) associated with it.

Now, that's not to say that the natural ways are not correct (16) because so much of the modern medicine is based also on what we've found in natural medicines as well, but more refined (17) to match a certain condition (18). So personally, I have used both (19), but I prefer modern (20) medicine.

Should entrepreneurship be taught in schools?

I'm Tahir, and I am from London in the United Kingdom. And my question is, should entrepreneurship be taught (1) in schools?

I think that entrepreneurship should be a part of your school experience (2), but I'm not sure if we should necessarily (3) spend an hour a day teaching entrepreneurship as a subject (4) in and of itself.

So, for example, I know that in the US there were loads of fairs (5) and competitions (6) within the schools for different entrepreneurial related things like product (7) designs or coming up with the best inventions (8), which I think is super cool (9). That's not really something that we have much of in the United Kingdom.

So I do think that entrepreneurship should be incorporated (10) in the school culture (11), even if it's not directly (12) taught as part of the everyday (13) curriculum (14). So yeah, that's sort of my views (15) on how entrepreneurship should have its role in day-to-day school learning.
